

Fairfax Police Department Case Study

SENTINEL EVIDENCE LOCKERS PROVIDE SECURE SOLUTION

For years, Fairfax Police Department was making do with a facility that was originally an old school house, equipped with undersized school lockers. The lockers offered inadequate space for storing the officers' personal items and, more importantly, irreplaceable evidence. Officers at times added their own shelves to the lockers to generate the needed space. The tight quarters in the locker room did not allow for any expansions or upgrades.

SOLUTION: SENTINEL EVIDENCE LOCKERS

In 2006, with funding approved, the Fairfax Police Department eagerly moved into a new, spacious facility complete with new lockers for the officers' equipment, as well as a new evidence storage solution in the custom line of highly secure Sentinel evidence lockers.

The lockers allow the officers to properly store evidence in industry-approved equipment, keeping the chain of evidence intact and under control.

The chief of police frequently gives tours to visiting departments noting Tiffin's lockers and their capabilities. The chief has recently recommended Tiffin's lockers to a police department in Pennsylvania.

Lynn Coulter, MPO, commented "We are very satisfied with the product and service we have received from Sentinel Lockers." She highly recommends Sentinel to anyone in the need of law enforcement lockers.
